intro

I was born from nature, in between tree branches and blossoming flowers, on the green grass and amongst the rocks of the mountains.
In order to live amongst you, I have turned into something new, something that comes from the past but speaks the language of the future.
I no longer wear any bark, I no longer carry any weight.
I covered myself in a smooth and thin armour, that resides in the architecture of your world.

I no longer respond to the wind's will, I no longer follow the seasons' orders,
I only wake up at the human touch.
I keep the energy within myself and transform it into light, which is strong but graceful: it lays down on the bodies and illuminates the faces with kindness, it caresses hands and makes the eyes shine.

I adore outdoor spaces, I there find the harmony with humans. I can be the fire around which they gather to celebrate, the place where they feel home. I stand out in the air and I nimbly move, blending with nature and with the world's colours. Follow my light, it is born from the memory of the branches pushed towards the blue of the sky. Keep the secret of my transformation: anything illuminated is undergoing a metamorphosis.
